F. No.06/DHPE/LEAP/2020

February 24, 2020

Dear Prof. Suresh,

Given the scale and size of Indian higher education, knowledge and skills are a prerequisite to lead and direct Higher Education Institutions. A new initiative by the Ministry, under the PMMMNMTT has been rolled out to address the needful gap, in the form of the Leadership for Academicians' Programme (LEAP). The main objectives of the leadership development training would be to equip Higher Education leaders and educational administrators to competently and efficiently handle the complex problems and leadership challenges that arise in the academic and administrative aspects of the functioning of their respective institutions, for improved efficiency.

The National Institute of Educational Planning and Administration (NIEPA), established by the Ministry of Human Resource Development, Government of India, has been approved as a Training Institution for implementing the LEAP. The programme will include around 30 participants. The domestic phase of the programme (13th-22nd March, 2020) will be delivered by NIEPA in New Delhi, followed by the international phase (25th-29th March, 2020) at Harvard Graduate School of Education, Cambridge, USA.

I am pleased to inform you of your selection for the LEAP training programme at NIEPA.

Since it is a three-week programme, including travel to Harvard University, you are requested to seek the necessary Permissions like, No Objection Certificate (NoC), Duty Leave etc. from your institution keeping in mind the programme schedule.

A line of confirmation may be sent to Dr. Aarti Srivastava, Coordinator of the programme at: aartijnu@gmail.com.

Thanking you in advance for your positive response and support.

With best regards,

Yours sincerely,

Re: Research Project on Gender and Education in Haryana

Dear Nidhi,

The University of Warwick, funded by the Fair Chance Foundation, have initiated a research project titled 'A fair chance for education: gendered pathways to educational success in Haryana, India.'

This action research project aims to produce useful and impactful evidence on factors that contribute to educational success for young people in Haryana, India. The project in particular takes a gender perspective, focusing on gendered social relations and gender differences in choices, obstacles and opportunities for young people as they progress through the education system. The first stage of the project involves gathering baseline evidence about the gendered educational trajectories of students who are in their first year of higher education in the state of Haryana, and the factors which influenced entry to and choice of higher education. In later stages of the project, research will be conducted to evaluate the process and results of the intervention.

Given your expertise on gender and education, it is our pleasure to invite you to be a part of the core group of Indian partners advising the research project. Indian partners will be involved in project visits in India and the UK, in contributing to the development and dissemination of the research, and will contribute to advising the two PhD students who will be funded by the project.

Yours sincerely,

Dear Professor Sabharwal:

It is my pleasure to invite you to speak at the 2020 Scholars at Risk Global Congress on Truth, Power & Society: The Promise of Higher Education in Challenging Times, to be held at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, March 27-28, 2020.

The conference theme Truth, Power & Society: The Promise of Higher Education in Challenging Times reflects three core roles of higher education: research and teaching leading to new insights and understanding, evidence-based contributions to public discourse and policy, and meaningful engagement with the broadest public good. Sessions will explore these roles across regions, including in Asia. We would be delighted if you would join us for a panel on the higher education sector in Asia. The panel, to be held Friday, March 27th, at 12:00pm, will address recent developments in the university sector in Singapore, China, Australia, and the region. Given your expertise, we would be honored if you would speak on higher education in India.
